SERIES: FOUR QUESTIONS FOR BETTER DECISIONS

Episode 4: "Passin' It On"

Good decisions lead to fewer regrets in life. But could embracing a greater purpose change the way we approach every decision?

QUESTIONS

01 Why is it so tempting to hold on to the credit, honor, or glory that comes our way?

02 How would you define "living for your own glory"? What are the pros and cons of living this way?

03 How would you describe your past experience with God or religion?

04 Andy mentioned that Jesus equated loving other people with loving and honoring God. How would you respond to this? Does this concept differ from the type of Christianity you've experienced in the past?

05 Could looking beyond yourself help you make certain decisions in your life right now? How so?

NOTES

BOTTOM LINE

The value of a life is measured by how much of it was given away.
